OR

Read the following passage and make a precis by providing a suitable title. Poverty, hunger, disease and war are man's greatest enemies and the world would be an infinitely better place if the powerful nations spend half as much money and effort in solving these problems as they do for the space race. For the first time in the history, man has the overwhelming resources to combat human suffering yet he squanders on meaningless pursuits. If a man deprived himself and his family of food in order to buy and run a car, we would consider him mad. Individuals with limited budgets usually get their priorities right. They provide themselves with necessities before trying to obtain luxuries. Why can't great nations act in the same sensible way? Let us put our house in order first and let space look after itself.

Questions:

- a) What are man's biggest enemies?
- b) How can we make the world a better place?
- c) How should nations combat human suffering?
- d) Who would be considered mad?

- Read the following lines and answer the given questions.

As I sit here alone and waiting
 I gaze at people passing me by.
 I try to smile and reach out to them
 But no one notices; no one waits.
 They look to me like I am nothing-
 Are they afraid to be seen saying "Hi" to an old man like me?
 Once my life, it's like a flower,
 I had bloomed into a child.
 Now, like the dying flower
 Waiting for my one day to come-
 It will be then that I am gone,
 And yet, I still would not have heard that simple word, "Hi"
 That for so long my heart had desired.

Questions:

- 18) How does the man in the poem try to connect to people?
- 19) With what does the man in the poem compare his life with?
- 20) What is the man's complaint?
- 21) You have recently interviewed the CEO of a bank about his/her life experiences. Prepare notes for the same. [3]
