Read the following passage and make a precis by providing a suitable title. It is strange but interesting that Gandhiji's first introduction to Gita was in England and through two English brothers. Gandhi at that time was studying law. The brothers read Gita regularly and asked Gandhi to join in. Perhaps they thought that they may get to know the text in Sanskrit better. But Gandhiji felt sad, because of his lack of Sanskrit knowledge. He read English version by Sir Edwin Arnold as recommended by his English friends and was captivated for life by Gita's message. He specially liked the last nineteen verses of the chapter II. He felt, his concept of dharma was summarized in those verses. He took to reading Gita everyday, later, in the original sanskrit language. During his imprisonment years, he studied the book in detail. Due to insistence from his friends, he translated it into Gujarati, his mother tongue. Later English translation appeared. [Total words 142]
